

CALLAHEAD'S WASTE WATER ALARM

Charles W. Howard, President & CEO of CALLAHEAD, has been a driving force in portable sanitation since 1976. With a prolific track record of invention, Charles has incorporated the WASTE WATER ALARM into the portable sanitation industry. This is one of the most necessary innovations in the industry because our products are mainly holding tanks and not utilized by sewers or cesspools. Charles is dedicated to changing the world through inventive designs that tackle everyday challenges and bring reliable advancements to the industry. As he says, "We're Gonna Rock This Planet, While We Still Can." Howard's quote reflects both his approach to business and his passion for ongoing innovation.

The WASTE WATER ALARM, designed to monitor water levels in CALLAHEAD waste tanks and prevent backups, overflows, and breakdowns, features a heavy-duty float switch built for environments that demand vigilant water level monitoring, ensuring reliable performance in challenging conditions. Highlighting the spirit of innovation, Charles W. Howard recently coined the phrase, "Industries Collide to Create All Innovation,"

Waste Water Alarm in White Office Trailer Restroom

This advanced system emits a powerful siren and flashes bright red lights when a waste tank nears capacity. Operating at 110 volts and .06 amps, the alarm reaches a volume of 90 decibels with a red LED light conveniently mounted above the porcelain toilet, and it features an on/off reset switch that can be set with the touch of a button.

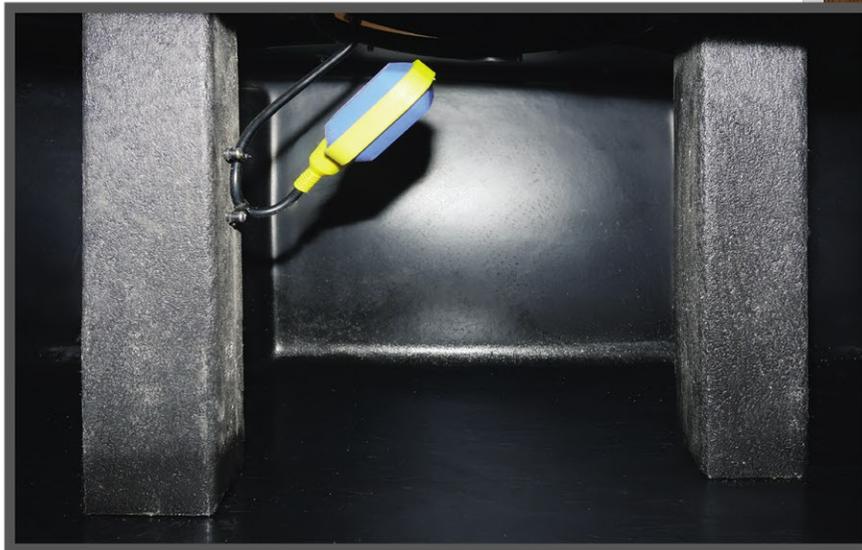

Providing a sense of safety and valuable information for your waste water system, the WASTE WATER ALARM is set up to sit in various size holding tanks of different heights, lengths, and widths. With the convenience of a simple, dedicated button to deactivate the alarm, users are provided with quick, reliable alerts and absolute peace of mind.

Collide to Create All Innovation," emphasizing how the WASTE WATER ALARM—though it may have been used in other fields for critical water level monitoring—has never before been offered in the portable sanitation industry. This groundbreaking application introduces proven technology from other sectors into a market that previously lacked such advanced monitoring and protection.

Waste Water Alarm LED Alarm & On/Off Switch

The WASTE WATER ALARM ensures proactive waste management: when the tank approaches full status, service can be contacted and the water supply turned off to prevent costly overflows. The system keeps environments clean and compliant by controlling odors and preventing ground contamination, while timely notifications help guarantee pump-out services are scheduled before the tank is full—enabling uninterrupted operation at any site. Ideal for CALLAHEAD's portable Water & Sewer System, Office Trailers, Waste Tanks, CALLAHEAD's own White Wash, Headrest and Portahead, as well as Restroom Trailers, the WASTE WATER ALARM delivers dependable protection wherever you need it most.
